Part II. To be completed by the Academic Advisor:

Extending I-20 Program Dates

When additional time is needed to complete an academic program, students may request an extension of the program end date on their Form I-20. Federal regulations allow an extension only when the delay is caused by compelling academic or medical reasons beyond the student's control, such as changes in academic plans, unexpected academic challenges, or documented medical circumstances.

- Student has maintained normal progress towards degree completion and the delay of the student's graduation has not been caused by academic probation, suspension, or poor academic performance.
- Student has GPA of 2.0 or higher
- Student is projected to graduate in semester _____.
